After a story or explanation, give the learner time to put one idea into their own words. A younger child may prefer drawing a scene and explaining it aloud. Keep questions that need more detail in a notebook and agree which one to take back to the teacher. This gives the next session a natural beginning and helps Website link parents follow what their child is learning.